WASHINGTON KITEFLIERS ASSOCIATION

Dedicated to helping people know how much fun it is to fly kites!

The 1998 AKA National Convention

We have a great privilege this year of having the AKA National Convention being held in Ocean Shores. There are many reasons to attend the convention, the sport kite and hand-crafted contests, the seminars, the fun-flies, the great kite auction and much more. I attended my first convention last year in Wildwood NJ and it was a blast, I always had something to do something to see or some one to talk to. Here's what's on the schedule to give you an idea, of what you will be seeing. I hope to see you there!

Editor's note: Due to lack of space in the newsletter I couldn't include the schedule of events for the AKA Convention. You can view the schedule on the AKA's website at: <http://www.aka.kite.org/> Click on "What's new", then "schedule".

The President's Prose

As we come to the end of another kite festival season and it's my time to reflect. We are extremely lucky to have a group of festivals in the Washington and Oregon areas that are hard to surpass in their quality, from the largest to the smallest they are very fun and well run.

Sometimes I think it easy for us to take for granted how fortunate we are to have the number of kite festivals we enjoy. How many other parts of the country have a kite festival or fun fly going on virtually every weekend during the summer?

I want to thank all the people who volunteer their time to make these events possible. I don't think there is a finer group of people in any other avocation than those in kiting are. Kites not only do what's asked, but also are usually already asking what can they do next or is there anything else you need.

At a WKA fun fly recently we were talking about what keeps us in kiting. The reasons we get into kiting are varied, but the reason that most of us stay involved is the people. In the kiting community there are people from all different walks of life, and yet we all talk to each other. Likely as not, you'll see a group of older fliers taking time to answer the questions of a young man learning to fly fighter kites, or a young person with spiked hair teaching a older person to fly a sport kite better. The warmth and friendliness of the kiting family is something that I cherish greatly, and I hope that you all have similar feelings.

As an aside, it was great to see Judy and Steve Milspaugh on the flying field again. Their presence has been missed.

Rob Pratt

WKA Spaghetti Feed

Well that's another pot of spaghetti under our belts. A Special Thanks to all the folks that helped set-up and take-down the hall. TJ & Stu and all their helpers made it a great dinner again. Also I would like to say Thank You to all the people that donated items for the door prizes for the event. With your generous donations it made the raffle a huge success. Thanks to everyone that attended this year and we hope to see you again next year.

Best Winds,
Dave Christenson

Up Your Winds Festival

This is the sixth year for this festival and it's getting better each year. This years festival was a huge success. It's laid back formula of fun competition and cash prizes made it a great festival. All the competitions categories were judged by a group of local merchants, which I think did an excellent job. Although the winds were a little squirrely and patches of fog would roll in every once in awhile, it made for a great day at the beach. The salmon dinner/potluck was great. The Robinsons did a great job of putting this festival together. If you attended this years event, please let them and the local merchants there know you had a great time and we will see you there again next year.

CELEBRATING 25 YEARS OF FLYING AND FRIENDSHIP

1973 - 1998

The following is a brief look at some of the early history of the Washington Kitefliers Association -- or WKA as we generally call ourselves.

WKA was formed by a group of kite enthusiasts that decided to get together to fly kites. They started flying together on a regular basis. Jack Van Gilder started a newsletter to let the group know where to gather to fly kites. Some of these "Founding Fathers" included Dave Checkley, Jack Van Gilder, Tony Toledo, Harold Writer, Ken Conrad, Tom Sisson, Bill Spezia, Jim Carnwath and John Dusenberry.

They were loosely organized in the beginning as it was too much fun just flying kites to deal with official details like Article of Incorporation by By-laws.

Dave Checkley was considered the "Chairman of the Board" before there was an official organization or a person named as President. He continued to hold that title until his passing. He was named as President in 1974. Jack Van Gilder was the first Secretary.

According to the newsletter of September, 1974, "After only one year of operation, W.K.A. has about 95 paid-up members, the largest local group of kitefliers in the country, according to Bob Ingraham of the American Kitefliers Association. Seattle also has more A.K.A. members than any other city in the U.S."

Executive board members in 1975 included Dave Checkley, Jack Van Gilder, Bill Spezia, Dave Whitman, _____ Freeman, John Dusenberry, Ken Conrad and Walt McColough.

In May of 1976 the club voted to authorize officers to put together Articles of Incorporation.

Later in December of 1985, Margaret Holzbauer helped President Tom Sisson in writing up a Constitution for WKA. This was the first step in gaining a nonprofit tax-exempt status.

In the early years, WKA held weekly "fly-ins" at many Seattle area parks including Stan Sayers (later named Genesse Park), Golden Gardens, Volunteer Park, Gas Works, Sand Point (later named Magnuson Park), and then began traveling around to Westport, Grayland, Long Beach, Vancouver B.C. and other places. The tradition began of flying kites on New Years Day at Golden Gardens.

Included on the list of "Fly-ins" were some special events. These included "Festivals of Kites" exhibitions at the Pacific Science Center; inaugural ceremonies for the opening of the Museum of Flight; the club spread an umbrella of kites at the dedication of the Rainier Bank Tower office building in downtown Seattle; dedication of Magnuson Park; celebration for new Seattle Trolley Cars; and at one of the early Bellevue Arts & Crafts Fairs.

There were special "fly-ins" on the Seattle Center grounds at the International Fountain and the Space Needle. Jack Van Gilder flew a Phillippine fighter kite so high that it landed on the observation deck of the Space Needle. They also used to have "boat flies" where you flew from the back end of a boat.

For several years kites had flown next to, and later inside Husky Stadium at University of Washington football games. WKA has also flown kites at half times for Seattle Sounder soccer games in the Kingdome.

Two world record indoor kite flight records were set in the Kingdome. The old record was broken on Jan. 31 - Feb. 1, 1979 with a flight of 9 hours, 13 minutes. This record was again broken on Feb. 7-8, 1980. The new record was set at 39 hours, 53 minutes. The team was the same on both occasions. These records were set by Carl Brewer, Tom Sisson and Bob McCort.

In 1973, Jack Van Gilder was the first editor of the club newsletter. He typed it on his typewriter until 1981. It was originally one page. It had grown over the years into one, two, three and then to four legal size pages by April, 1986. The newsletter was expanded to its current 8-1/2" x 11" multipage format in August, 1987 when it was determined that more pages could be printed for about the same cost. It helped that one of the members was a printer.

The early newsletters merely had a typed heading of the "WASHINGTON KITEFLYERS - Newsletter" or "WASHINGTON KITEFLIERS ASSOCIATION." Dave Checkley designed the repeating WKAWKAWKA, with the fading letters. It was first used on the newsletter in September, 1976. Later in March, 1983 WKA was superimposed on a Philippine fighter kite designed by Tony Toledo, one of the Founding Fathers. The newsletters bore this logo for four issues. Again the fading letters were used as the logo until February-March 1993 when the current red, yellow and blue WKA diamond kites logo was first used. This logo was designed by Jeffrey Reed.

In the early years the newsletters contained many articles by Jack Van Guilder and Dave Checkley. Photographs began to appear in June, 1978. Dave Checkley supplied many stories and pictures from his kite tours to China and Japan. Several members accompanied the Chairman on his travels.

There have been many kite plans published over those early years by such builders as Jack Van Gilder, Stormy Weathers, Ken Conrad, Bill Lee and Margaret Greger. One builder, Louise Crowley, did magnificent work sewing her kites -- totally by hand.

Education has always been an important activity for the club with many members involved. Kite building classes at elementary schools, summer camps, fairs and at Fort Worden have been a continuing tradition. Thousands of kites have been built with kids. Books have been donated to the Seattle Public Library that contained a book plate placed inside the front cover with a drawing of the Tony Toledo Philippine fighter kite.

David Checkley and Jack Van Guilder, and other "high fliers" have passed on to a Higher Flying Field. They have left us with many kite flying adventures to read about in the WKA archives at Great Winds Kite Shop in Seattle.

We want to thank David, Jack and the others, for getting together to fly kites and for forming the Washington Kitefliers Association.

Letter From Boyer

On Behalf of the Board, staff and children we serve at Boyer Children's Clinic, I want to extend our deepest appreciation for having Boyer Children's Clinic be part of this year's Seattle Kite Festival. It was a great day, with hundreds of people attending, Radio Disney AM 1250 coming out with their new van, and media coverage from KING TV, KSTW 11, KCPQ and the Seattle Times. It was great when Jeff Renner, the weather person from Channel 5 and supporter of Boyer, did his live report at Gasworks Park and showed footage of the Festival.

The purpose of our involvement this year was not financially driven, however more than $340 was generously donated from the drawings, all of which went directly to Boyer and our programs. Thank you!

The Seattle Kite Festival is a wonderful community event for children, youth and families which makes it a perfect "fit" for Boyer to become associated with. Boyer is a non-profit United Way agency that has been an invaluable resource to the Puget Sound region for over fifty years. Boyer's goal is to help children with cerebral palsy or other developmental delays to live the most productive, independent lives as possible. Understanding the importance of intervening at the earliest age, Boyer works mainly with children from birth through three years of age. Eighty percent of the children served are from low-income families who do not have the resources to provide for adequate care of the child without financial assistance. Boyer helps any child in need, regardless of race, religion, or the family's financial situation.

As Director of Development for Boyer Children's Clinic, I look forward to working collectively with Kathy Goodwind and all the Kite Shops associated with this event.

Editor's Echo

I can't believe how fast this summer has gone. It has been a great one, not only has the weather been about the best I can remember, there were lots of great kite festivals to go to! We made it to 7 festivals, mostly ones with competitions. It has been great getting to know a lot of other kite flyer's. That is the nicest part of doing the competitions.

This newsletter filled up rather quickly, a big thanks to all that contributed. Rob Pratt had given me a schedule of events for the AKA but there was no way I could get it in. Sylvia Bernauer had sent me lots of pictures too that unfortunately I could not get in either. Given some space over the winter I'll try and get some of these in. I hope to see some of you at the AKA and at Rockaway. Looking forward to the good food at Rockaway!
